HIGHLIGHTING WHAT'S NEW WITH YOU!

Winston-Salem State University's Housing and Residence Life department is proud to introduce the Ram Standard, a comprehensive residential curriculum designed to enhance student development and community engagement. This innovative program focuses on key areas such as academic success, personal growth, and social responsibility, aiming to create a supportive and enriching on-campus living experience. The Ram Standard includes initiatives like a roommate mediation process, which serves as an extension of the residential curriculum, helping residents address conflicts and discover creative, viable living solutions. By participating in this curriculum, students are encouraged to engage in meaningful dialogues, develop essential life skills, and contribute positively to the campus community.

To gain deeper insights into the Ram Standard and its unique approach, we invite you to explore the program's dedicated YouTube playlist, which offers a series of informative videos detailing various aspects of the curriculum. Additionally, the Ram Standard Curriculum Booklet provides an in-depth look at the program's structure and objectives.

Discover how WSSU is redefining residential life and fostering a vibrant, supportive community for all students.
